Pollution Perils 'Must Be Aired'

U.S. Copter Crash Leaves 32 Dead

SAIGON (AP) — Thirty-two Americans were believed dead today in one of the worst helicopter crashes of the Vietnam war, but the United States command announced that U.S. battlefield casualties last week dropped to their lowest level in 4 1/2 years.

The weekly casualty report said 52 Americans were killed in action last week and another 358 were wounded. A spokesman said it was the lowest casualty total since the week ending March 5, 1966, when 61 Americans were killed and 177 wounded.

Communist and South Vietnamese casualties also were down. The U.S. command said 1,055 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week, the lowest in more than three years, while the Saigon government reported 247 of its troops killed, the lowest in a month, and 745 wounded.

The American report did not include the casualties in the shooting down Wednesday of the 50-foot-long 14-ton Chinook helicopter. Two bodies were recovered, seven men were injured, and 30 other Americans were listed as missing and presumed dead.

The big U.S. Army helicopter was hit by a rocket grenade as it was coming in for a landing at Fire Base Judy, in the northern part of the country. It was transporting troops being withdrawn from Kham Duc, a base 13 miles east of the Laotian border which combined troops abandoned Wednesday.

The chopper crashed just outside the artillery base, spraying wreckage in several directions. A rotor blade hurtled into the base, killing two soldiers stationed there and wounding five others.

There were 32 Americans aboard the twin-rotor transport, and only the co-pilot and one passenger among the Americans, an infantryman, were rescued. Both were injured. Late today no word had been received on recovery of missing bodies.

In the worst helicopter crash of the war, 41 Americans were killed on Jan. 8, 1969, when a CH-53 troop carrier crashed into a mountain. On May 7, 1969, two Americans and 38 South Vietnamese troops were killed when a CH-47 hit a tree while taking off near Khe Sanh.

The 52 Americans killed in action last week was the lowest death toll since the week ending Dec. 3, 1966, when 44 U.S. troops died on the battlefield. It was the first time since then a U.S. Army battlefield deaths have gone below the 60 mark.

The official summary listed a total of 43,418 U.S. troops killed in action and 287,216 wounded in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese casualties reported for last week resulted in 667,231 the number of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops reported killed since Jan. 1, 1961.

Expert Says Public Awareness Vital In Tracking Offenders

OTTAWA (CP) — Effective pollution control in Canada requires a supreme co-ordinating agency at the federal cabinet level, assistant professor A. R. Lucas of the University of British Columbia, maintained today.

Prof. Lucas, who gives courses on natural resources, was addressing the University of Ottawa's eighth symposium on comparative law.

Other speakers on pollution, the opening subject, were Prof. Julian Juergensmeyer, Tulane University, New Orleans, and Maurice Prelle, Brussels, legal counsel to the European Commission Market.

All three emphasized the importance of public opinion in checking pollution. Prof. Juergensmeyer and Prof. Lucas, after sketching a maze of laws and agencies on pollution, stressed the need for over-riding federal action.

Prof. Juergensmeyer said industries in the U.S. are gravitating to areas where there are pollution laws and agencies because these provide in effect a maze behind which they can hide.

He advocated a resources allocation system in which development of land, minerals, timber and so on would be regulated by need for the product, effect on the area of location, quantity of the resource, and environmental effect.

Prof. Lucas said environmental control groups must be given more recourse to the law—often an obstacle in Canada—and more access to deliberations of regulatory agencies.

He criticized British Columbia's pollution control branch, saying that its permit system has turned into a sort of "vested right to pollute."

Enforcement by government agencies usually was weak.

Prof. Lucas asked how such agencies could be expected to be vigorous when the governments that formed them had high stakes in resources.

Maximum public representation should be provided for at hearings by such agencies.

Mr. Prelle also said the benefit to public health of pollution controls had to be weighed against economic factors. No government could ignore the economic loss that pollution control might impose.

GLOBAL GLIMPSES

Swedish Frigate Rammed By Trespassing Russian

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A Soviet destroyer rammed a Swedish frigate that had been chasing her in Swedish waters, the defence staff reported today.

The incident took place late Wednesday afternoon off Smygehuk, Sweden's southernmost tip. It occurred during Swedish navy exercises in the area which have been followed closely by foreign ships, a defence spokesman said. The weather was clear when the Soviet destroyer was spotted about half a mile inside the Swedish 18-mile limit.

The Soviet ship ignored signals from the Swedish frigate Sundsvall to leave and suddenly swerved into the side of the larger Swedish ship, the report said.

Toronto's New Feminists Want Own Liberation Day

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Toronto New Feminists says Canada should hold its own women's liberation day soon.

Bonnie Kreps was commenting in an interview on the liberation day held Wednesday across the United States in which women burned bras, ignored their husbands and dumped babies on city hall steps.

The Toronto spokesman said Canadian women have an even greater need than American women for such a day.

Czech Scouts May Resist

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Some Czechoslovak boy scout troops are preparing to go underground rather than be integrated into the Communist-run Young Pioneer League, the Communist party newspaper Rude Pravo says.

The boy scout troops, denounced here as a "bourgeois company" whose leaders include clergymen and political elements, will be liquidated Oct. 1, apparently because state-sponsored Communist youth groups could not compete with them.

The cut in the bank rate, effective immediately, came after a series of optimistic official reports on the progress of the French economy in the year since the devaluation of the franc last August.

The bank council also cut the rate at which money is lent against securities to nine per cent from 9.5 per cent.

The bank rate is the established rate at which money is lent.

HYDRO SLOWS
TORONTO (CP) — A general work slowdown by 11,000 Ontario Hydro employees across the province today appeared to have little outward effect on the public utility's operations.

A spokesman for Hydro headquarters here said a check of the 75 offices and power generating stations in the province showed that normal power supplies were being maintained and that everything looked "pretty good."

DOCTORS GATHER
MONTREAL (CP) — Several hundred medical specialists gathered in an east-end arena today for an all-day information rally on the proposed Quebec medical care insurance plan, leaving only emergency crews of specialists on duty in hospitals throughout the province.

A. H. Dixon, district forester for the Kamloops forest district, which includes the Kelowna region, said the forest fire situation in southern British Columbia is the most critical in the province's history.

In a statement today he urged all residents to attack any small fire resulting from campfires, cigarettes in grass or forest areas, prior to reporting them to the British Columbia Forest Service.

The public is required to carry shovels, hoes or similar apparatus in their vehicles when travelling.

Public is also requested to stay out of the woods, back roads or open range, and urged to remain on main highways.

Danger of damage to towns and villages is acute, and American states bordering the province have been declared fire disaster areas.

Campfires and burning permits remain illegal.

In Kelowna, a Forest Service spokesman said if the fire situation continues, a forest closure would be placed into effect.

NEW YORK ACTION
Shouting "Come on, sister, join us" to less-demonstrative female spectators, an estimated 20,000 to 30,000 women paraded down New York City's Fifth Avenue Wednesday in the biggest of United States-wide demonstrations to get women "out of the kitchen, out of the house, out from under."

Some joined, while others jeered as the steady stream of placard-carrying slogan-chanting women activists marched down the broad asphalt of one of the world's leading centres of feminine fashion.

Down the same avenue a half-century ago marched suffragettes demanding the right to vote, and Wednesday's parade was timed to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the 19th amendment to the U.S. constitution granting female suffrage.

British Police Seize Weapons

LONDON (AP) — Police made more than 100 co-ordinated raids throughout England during the night, rounding up weapons believed destined for Northern Ireland and the Middle East.

The sweep, which began at exactly 7 p.m. Wednesday, was the biggest dragnet in British police history. More than half the targets were in the London area, but the rest were spread from Cornwall to the Scottish border.

Bomb Threat Halts Flights At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — A dozen CP Air flights were delayed for as much as two hours Tuesday because of a telephone bomb threat and extortion attempt, it was disclosed Wednesday by police.

A police spokesman said the incident was kept secret because detectives were attempting to trap a suspect.

The spokesman said a man called CP Air Tuesday afternoon and said a bomb had been put on a CP Air flight and was due to explode. He ordered the airline to place $30,000 in a telephone booth in the Kitsilano district of Vancouver in return for information on location of the bomb.

The cash was placed in the booth and a police stakeout was set for the mystery caller. But nobody came to collect.

Meanwhile, at Vancouver International airport, nine CP Air flights were immediately frozen. Each aircraft was searched and all passengers were asked to identify their baggage.

Two flights in the east also were held up, and another in Whitehorse.

There was no sign of a bomb. The $30,000 later was returned to CP Air.

Mid-East Peace Talks Continue Although Israeli Envoy Absent

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Gunnar V. Jarring, United Nations Middle East negotiator, decided to go ahead with consultations today aimed at getting substantive peace talks going despite the absence of Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah.

Diplomatic sources anticipated that Jarring will continue his discussions, begun Tuesday, with Egypt's UN ambassador, Mohamed H. El-Zayyat, while Tekoah is in Jerusalem for consultations with his government.

El-Zayyat conferred for 45 minutes with the UN special envoy Wednesday and was briefed on the results of Jarring's two meetings with Tekoah Tuesday.

The sources expect Tekoah, who left Tuesday evening, to be back in New York early next week with comprehensive instructions on Israeli's position in the talks. Although he was named deputy delegate to Foreign Minister Abba Eban, Tekoah is expected to represent Israel in the early rounds of indirect talks with Egypt and Jordan.

Abdul Hamid Sharaf, Jordanian ambassador to the United States, also met Jarring for a second time Wednesday, but he later returned to his post in Washington. He left word, however, that he is available for further consultations at a moment's notice.

Sharaf is standing in for Jordanian UN Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra, who will not be back in New York from consultations in Amman until early next month.

The sources suggested that these first few meetings under Jarring are being used to establish the basic positions of the three governments.

"This really means Israel," they said, "since the Arabs' position is well known."

Four of the men who escaped from the Prince Albert penitentiary were recaptured early Tuesday but police had the hardest time with the last three, a trio that included two convicted murderers.

The three took two youths as hostages and crashed through a police road block early Wednesday but were captured two hours later when they jumped out of their car and were found hiding under a bush by a police dog.

Police said the men, Robert Desjarlais, 28, Douglas Letendre, 26, and Glen Wayne Burnett, 25, burst in on two youths who were sleeping in a car near MacDowall, Sask., about 20 miles south of Prince Albert, and forced them to go along as hostages.

Police Strike, Crime Soars

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Police Commission was told Wednesday that there was a 50-per-cent increase in crime in one district during a walkout by Montreal's 3,700 policemen last Oct. 7.

Andre Deluca, inspector in charge of No. 4 station during the 16-hour walkout, said his force numbered 250 but when the strike occurred he was left alone and the crime rate shot up.

Insp. Deluca said that several hours after the strike began, a provincial police lieutenant and four constables arrived to help out.

"However, the lieutenant left after the station was visited by a sergeant of the Montreal police force."

"Why (the visit)? I never asked," said Insp. Deluca.

With "utmost politeness," Sgt. Patrick DeCaen asked the QPP lieutenant to leave, which he did "quietly and with a grand smile."

Seoul Denies Spiro's Claim

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean government today disagreed with much of what U.S. Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew said publicly about his lengthy talks with President Chung Il-se Park Monday and Tuesday.

Agnew told American reporters travelling with him that he and Park "had reached a basic accord," and the vice-president also said there would be no change in U.S. plans to withdraw 20,000 of the 62,000 U.S. troops in Korea by next June 30.

But Information Minister Shin Bum-shik told a news conference:

"We have never consented to the withdrawal of 20,000 U.S. troops from Korea. There is no change at all in our basic position that the modernization of our armed forces must precede any U.S. troop cutback in Korea."

Frank Struthers, 16, the son by a former marriage of LaBianca's wife Rosemary, who also was slain, took the stand Wednesday as the state turned to details of the double slaying the night after Miss Tate and four others were killed.

Descriptions of the Tate murder scene ended with a police chemist telling how trails of blood through the mansion and outside marked the paths taken by victims trying to flee their killers. He said the word "Pig" on the front door of the house was scrawled by someone using a towel dipped in the slain actress's blood.

Hair An Issue On Welfare Plea

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia welfare department has withdrawn a 1968 directive requiring welfare applicants to be of "conventional dress and appearance."

Welfare Minister P. A. Gagliardi said Wednesday, however, that long-haired men seeking welfare still will have to agree to a haircut if a prospective employer demands it.

The 1968 directive, attacked by the B.C. Civil Liberties Association, has been superseded by a new Department of Rehabilitation and Social Improvement assessment form.

This form does not mention dress or appearance. But it does ask applicants some questions that have been criticized, such as whether they need counselling for financial, marital, drinking or drug problems.

Mr. Gagliardi said these questions will remain, adding: "How can you help people if you can't find out their problems?"

Cuts In U.S. Space Program Sees Von Braun Team Break Up

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (Reuters) — Current cuts in the American space program are breaking up Werner von Braun's Second World War German missile team.

About a dozen veteran members of rocketry's famous "von Braun team" have received notice either of demotion or layoff at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Centre.

At least seven of the German-born rocketeers, who ironically were to celebrate next month their 25th year of employment by the U.S. government, will lose their jobs before Oct. 1, space centre officials confirmed. But the reunion remains scheduled.

Several others are to be downgraded in their jobs. Still others, under pressure to help preserve the jobs of younger men, are retiring prematurely. But seven being laid off are among 121 workers at the 6,000-man Marshall Centre who received layoff notices as a result of the reduced space budget.

All but one of the seven, although employed continuously since 1945 by the U.S. government, had chosen years ago not to become career civil servants. They remained on the so-called "excepted status" they held before gaining U.S. citizenship.

Thus when the axe fell, none had the civil service privilege of transferring to government jobs elsewhere or of accepting only a demotion.

Otto Hirschler, the last of the Second World War German missilemen to work for the U.S. Army, was laid off earlier this year in a personnel reduction at the army missile command at Redstone Arsenal, also located here.

Led by von Braun, 118 of the German V-2 rocket developers came to the U.S. in 1945.

When this week's layoff notices came, about 50 of the original 118 were still on the space centre's payroll.

Their longtime leader has already moved on. Von Braun left Marshall Centre for a new post at NASA headquarters in Washington this spring.

REVIVING INTEREST FAVERHAM, England (CP) — Bill Wells, 71, has concocted a cross wine which, he claims, acts as an aphrodisiac. He asked some of his friends in Kent to try the potion—and they all agreed on its effect. "I'm not a young man," Wells said, "but two glasses certainly put some thoughts into my mind."

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices turned downward in light morning trading today on the Toronto stock market, interrupted by four consecutive sessions of advance.

On index, industrials dropped .25 to 159.66 and western oils .28 to 167.80. Golds were up .33 to 150.09 and base metals 1.10 to 95.59.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 495,000 shares, up from 424,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Gains outnumbered losses 116 to 84 with issues unchanged. Analysts said the sharp rise in base metals was caused by announcement by Finance Minister Edgar Benson Wednesday of changes in Income Tax Act revision proposals which affect the mining industry.

The changes would give mining companies greater depletion allowance advantages than originally planned in the government's white paper on taxation. Falconbridge Mining rose 3/8 to 137, Lake Dufault 1/2 to 154, Bethlehem 1/2 to 17 1/2, Kerr-Adair 1/2 to 11 1/2, New Quebec 1/2 to 17 1/2 and Sheritt 1/2 to 18.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trading was active and prices were up on the Vancouver Stock Exchange this morning with a first-hour volume of 420,000 shares.

Driver Development led early trading in industrials, up .01 from yesterday's close at .57 on 4,300 shares.

In the oils, Commercial Oil gained .02 to 10 after a turnover of 10,000 shares.

And in the mines, Mymine was up .04 to .25 after trading 82,000 shares.

YOU CAN HELP FIREMEN'S CAMPAIGN

The Kelowna Fire Fighters' Association is battling muscular dystrophy with a three-ring circus this year, and a lot of faith in local citizenry.

The first benefit circus in the city is scheduled for Wednesday at the City Park Oval, featuring the internationally famous Gaudi-Charles three-ring extravaganza. Buying the first $10 block of tickets, Mayor Hilbert Roth, right, hopes his example will be emulated by community-

East side of Maple Street is the grand award winner for 1970 of the Kelowna Kiwanis Club's block beautiful campaign.

Maple Street was the first of six weekly winners selected by Kiwanis club members and their wives, and judged by Geoff Cottle, of the parks department. Ald. Gwen Holland and George Tippet, of the Kiwanis committee.

Other committee members were Ric Cooper and H. L. Trembley.

Runners up were both sides of 1800 block Carruthers St., and the west side of the 2400 block Taylor Cresc.

Both blocks were judged equal.

South side of 1300 block Wilson Ave., south side of Briarwood, from 1221 to 1359, and the north side of 1200 block Lawson Ave., followed.

Lawson Avenue, last year's grand award winner, was not eligible to receive the award this year because of the prior award.

A plaque will be erected on Maple Street at a later date, with each homeowner to receive an individual citation.

Valley Beaches In Good Shape

Of 51 Okanagan beaches tested during the past three months, only one was posted as not meeting public health standards, the South Okanagan Union Board of Health was told Wednesday.

Meeting in Oliver to hear third quarterly report, the board heard Winfield Community Beach, at the south end of Wood Lake, was posted for not meeting recommended provincial water requirements.

Provincial water quality standards may provide a base to maintain stability of Okanagan beaches and eliminate conditions causing pollution in recreational areas.

Since closure of the Winfield beach health officials have removed several factors contributing to the high coliform counts.

The coliform count reached an average of 668 at the Winfield Community Beach in eight tests, compared with a count of 233 at Hot Sands beach in Kelowna.

After posting the beach health officials took dye tests and discovered 12 hidden raw sewage lines discharging into Vernon Creek, which flows into Wood Lake.

RAW SEWAGE
One resort operator was found with a raw sewage outlet draining directly into the lake.

Horses, cows, ducks, chickens, and pigs were also contributors to pollution of an irrigation tailings ditch entering the lake.

All sewage problems have been corrected, health officials said, but only two of several farmers involved removed stock from the tailings ditch area.

"Unless a concerted effort is made by residents of the area it is possible water quality may become unsatisfactory over a widespread area, affecting the whole south end of the lake," the board was told.

"This situation is a glaring example of the effect of increased population growth, tourism and agricultural and industrial activity on the local environment without parallel safeguards and consideration for proper planning."

AUGUST 1969
The provincial "recommended water quality standards" for domestic and recreational waters went into effect in August, 1969, and since then a sampling program has been held in the Okanagan.

The program was intensified during the summer due to increased use of recreational water.

Inspectors submitted 446 samples on 51 bathing beaches in the South Okanagan.

In addition to a total coliform count the Winfield beach had a fecal coliform count of 249.

Wardlaw Beach in Kelowna had a total coliform count of 542 and a fecal coliform count of 68.

Sutherland Beach remained a problem area, with a total coliform count of 684.

Beaches tested were on Kalamalka, Okanagan, Skaha and Osoyoos lakes and the lowest over-all coliform counts were registered in Osoyoos Lake's five beaches.

The board of health was told that industrial waste is still being discharged into the lake system, which is reflected directly in water quality on Okanagan beaches.

"We have not recommended beach closure or posted beaches unless the situation on both fecal and total (coliform) counts is obviously unsatisfactory as was the case on Wood Lake Community Beach," a health official said.

Health Services Will Be Reduced

The health unit will cut services in the Okanagan until provincial permission is received to replace staff losses.

The most recent loss to health unit staff is Dave Jenkins, public health inspector Kelowna, who will return to the B.C. Institute of Technology in September.

Dr. D. A. Clarke, medical health officer, told the third quarterly meeting of the South Okanagan Union Board of Health Wednesday, the unit was trying to reduce service and relocate coverage among the remaining inspectors.

Even with re-location health inspectors will not be able to service distant areas such as Tulameen, Manning Park, Osoyoos Lake, Allison Lake or Fintry.

"These areas will be handled on a special emergency basis only," Dr. Clarke said.

Since a government moratorium on hiring personnel was enforced to replace staff retiring or resigning, health unit officials have warned many services may have to be cut.

The SOUBH has twice appealed to school boards, city councils and other groups for support in protesting the provincial government's position on not replacing staff during the tight money situation.

"We hope curtailment of personnel will not be a permanent situation, as we have indicated previously that rather than reducing personnel we need an increase of two men," Dr. Clarke said.

The increase is necessitated by the "phenomenal rate of development" in the Okanagan he added.

With financial assistance from Penitence, the federal government and the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control the health unit employed two BCIT students who helped during the heavy summer workload.

Bacteria Counts Reduced

Bacterial counts on treated Kelowna and Penitence sewage effluent have been reduced markedly during the past three months to a more satisfactory level, says a report issued Wednesday in Oliver to the Union Board of Health for the South Okanagan Health Unit.

The report says five samples were taken at Brent's Creek, near the Sun-Rype Products Ltd. plant in Kelowna, where an estimated 250,000 gallons flow past the area daily.

The report adds tests ranged from 16,000 to 1.6 million of coliform per 100 cubic centimetres of water.

This count is obtained by taking a sampling of water and chemically diluting the solution and testing for bacterial activity.

If such activity is present after the original solution has been diluted five times and isolated for some time, further tests are made to see if the bacteria is harmless or fecal (harmful).

If fecal bacteria are present in the sampling, tests show the extent they have polluted the water.

When a coliform count is taken, the most probable number (mpn) or most likely number of bacteria present in the sample, is indicated by the coloration of the sample through various chemical indicators.

William Panchomchuk, secretary of the Okanagan Basin Water Board, says the coliform tests are one of the more difficult tests to obtain accurate readings.

The health board report says coliform samples, averaged 526,000 mpn at the Sun-Rype plant, with a small fecal count.

At the Kelowna Sewage Effluent plant, where the estimated daily flow is three million gallons, eight samples were taken with the range from 400 to 91,500, for an average of 16,000. Fecal count was less than two.

During the past three months, the report adds, 465 private sewage disposal inspections were made, most of these being newly constructed installations.

The number in the Rutland area was more than double that of other areas in the unit, the report added.

Community Water Supplies Hard-Pressed By Growth

Problems in community water supplies are taking on greater significance as the number of residents being served continually increases, says a report on environmental health and sanitation, presented Wednesday at the third quarterly meeting of the Union Board of Health of the South Okanagan Board of Health in Oliver.

The report said with growing populations, come associated environmental degradation, adding many people may not yet learned to respect the conditional balance that exists to allow mankind to live in harmony with the environment.

"We cannot ignore the increasing adverse influences that are reflected in deteriorating water quality," the report said.

One indicator of human and animal pollution of water supplies is the coliform test.

When coliform levels in untreated water rise above 50 per hundred millilitres, it is an indication simple chlorination is not considered to be an adequate treatment and filtration systems must be added as further refinement measures.

Several chlorinated community water systems have continuously experienced positive tests, the report said, frequently above the 10 per cent level as designated as a limit for safe water.

High coliform levels were obtained in watershed areas, with the probable major pollution source being cattle watering and defecating in creek bottoms.

"However, people are also contributing to the problem with human and other wastes which enter the watersheds," the report added.

Five Bridges Sewer Plan Still Set For This Year

Plans are going ahead for a sewer system in the Five Bridges area, E. F. Lawrence, director of operations, said today.

"The system is still being designed," he said, adding he hoped work would begin on the project this year.

"Our intention is to proceed with this project this year, and we should be calling for tenders sometime this year," he said.

Mr. Lawrence said there was no tentative date for tender call or starting date for the project.

Costs were not announced.

At a city council meeting in June, Five Bridges residents were concerned about sewer installations in the area.

E. M. Clark and Immanuel Thielmer appeared before council asking for information on the system.

Mr. Clark said a lack of a sewer system was causing problems, and if left too long, would cost "a lot of money."

He also asked council if any date was specified for the system.

Mr. Lawrence told council the area became part of the city in June, 1964. At that time, residents were promised water, immediately and sewage collection when requested by residents.

In 1966, a plebiscite was received, seeking a sewage system, but preliminary designs and cost estimates indicated the project would be too costly for area homeowners.

A bylaw, passed for improvement and expansion of the sewage treatment plant, included the Five Bridges sewage system.

The bylaw called for the sewage system to be done this year and council said this was still the plan.

SEEN and HEARD

Major R. K. Malott of 16 Harwick Cresc., Ottawa, 6, Ont., is seeking information from relatives of Sgt. Thomas Gale (registration number 5674) of the First Canadian Division, Signal Corps. Sgt. Gale's last known address was RR 1 Kelowna and he died Aug. 9, 1950. The information is wanted for the Canadian War Museum records.

A sports car driver seen travelling along Lakeshore Road the other day was taking chances on the strength of his left arm. Balanced over his roll bar and windshield was a piece of a sheet of plywood almost as big as his car. He secured the wood with his left hand while driving with his right. One question remains unsolved — how did he shift gears?

Faithful to a cause, a local resident followed an out-of-town camper enthusiast at least two miles out of his way the other day. The reason? The tourist was driving along unaware the door of his camper was open and his curtains streaming out behind. Eventually the Kelownian caught up and warned the tourist before anything (or anyone?) fell out.

Some unusual items have been known to find their way into lunch rooms. But one downtown business had a novel sight today. The soft drink machine is often filled with sandwiches and containers of diet food, but on the counter was a container of raw rhubarb and some mysterious green stuff, later described as an ingredient for dill pickles.

A warehouse at the Sun-Rype Products Ltd. research section on Ellis Street is beginning to show its skeleton as workmen continue to demolish the structure damaged by a July fire. The blaze destroyed the warehouse, a nearby boilerhouse, and a storage facility.

We've heard of people walking their dogs, but two young Kelowna girls have completely reversed the routine. They were seen early Wednesday evening, strolling toward the lake along Doyle Avenue, each carrying a small black kitten.

FOR COLLEGE

Mayor Halina Has Suggestion

"All the college can do is thank Mayor Halina for his support," said Dr. Roland Grant, principal of Okanagan College, relative to a proposal by Vernon Mayor William Halina for a central regional college at Vernon military camp site.

Commenting on a story carried in The Vernon News Monday confirming support of the scheme from "other Okanagan mayors," Dr. Grant said Wednesday, "It's very nice of him to think of us and consider our future." He added the college council was "only in favor of education as best we can handle" and the board had "not made any decisions on anything," but was "open to all suggestions."

Asked if he favored the suggestion,

Dr. Grant said the college would not discount such a location, "if we can get land from the department of national defence."

"If Mayor Halina is looking out for the college, we can only thank him for it," Dr. Grant added.

One other Okanagan mayor in favor of the proposal is Mayor Roth, who was quoted as saying he was "very favorable to the idea, although naturally my first loyalty lies with a campus in Kelowna." He added: "In this day and age we have to be realistic and with interest rates what they are, Vernon offers outstanding existing facilities."

His views were echoed by Penticton Mayor Douglas Stuart who said Vernon was an "ideal site" for a Valley college that could eventually be developed into degree-granting institution, possibly a university which could be established "immediately". He added: "we do not care where the university is located, but we are not entirely in favor of college program that does not grant degrees." Mayor Stuart said the curriculum of "some of these satellite campuses does not always meet with our approval and we think a university at the outset is the answer."

Both mayors clarified they were not speaking for their respective city councils and were merely expressing personal opinions. Mayor Roth was not available for comment on his own statements Wednesday.

Mayor Halina said Vernon would be negotiating with Ottawa to complete plans to lease army camp property for a spray and irrigation system, as well as a new site for a water reservoir. A city delegation left Tuesday for Ottawa to discuss plans with DND officials to bring the army camp under city jurisdiction, Mayor Halina said he was working "diligently" to set up the regional college program, but that it was not slated on the official agenda during the Ottawa meetings.

There is still no indication of the final status of the army camp, but Defence Minister Leo Cadieux hinted that all ad hoc cadet camps throughout Canada will be phased out with cadet training provided at regular force bases.

Forest Hazard Still Extreme

Conditions in the Kelowna ranger district remain "quiet" today, say British Columbia Forest Service officials.

Three fires still burning in the area are under control.

The fires are located at Dee Lake, Silver Creek and Raymer Lake.

Of the three, the Dee Lake and Silver Creek smokes are small and should be contained by Friday.

To date there have been 64 fires reported in the Kelowna area, three more than the previous record of 61, in 1960.

A thick haze continues to blanket the area from forest fires in the Kamloops forest district.

Conditions remain extreme.

Forest Service officials said effectiveness of aerial observations and lookout stations has been lowered with the smoke screen.

Because of the extreme conditions, all open campfire and burning permits remain cancelled.

Knox Mountain Park, in Kelowna, remains closed due to the fire hazard.

Elsewhere in the province, lightning storms and a few care-less smokers caused 71 new fires overnight, 41 in the Kamloops forest district.

About 250 men and 24 bulldozers were working to complete fire guards around the 1,000-acre Scotch Creek fire north of Shuswap Lake.

Another outbreak west of 100 Mile House was under attack by 70 men.

A fire at Sulphur Creek, 40 miles north of Fernie, was burning out of control over 2,500 acres, with 45 men and eight bulldozers fighting.

The Tel. fire, about 15 miles north of Fernie, grew to 1,700 acres, although firefighters were making gains against it.

The Fish and Bing fires, also in the East Kootenay, were being held at 1,000 and 1,500 acres respectively.

A total of 1,914 men, 141 bulldozers and a full complement of aircraft were fighting the 373 fires burning in the province.

Meanwhile, weather officials in Vancouver say a Pacific cold front is expected to cross the coastal mountains this afternoon and evening.

Thundershower activity should be in advance of the front, officials said, adding the Chilcotin, Central Interior and parts of the Southern Interior should be affected by the strikes.

"Whether there is any rain with the storm is too early to forecast," one official said.

Some Of These Children Might Have Been Killed

Twenty-five poisoning cases were reported at the Poison Control Centre at Kelowna General Hospital during the third quarter, says a report tabled Wednesday in Oliver at the Union Board of Health for the South Okanagan Health Unit.

The report says the patients' ages ranged from 3 months to 15 years, and that poisons taken ranged from fertilizer to baby tablets.

A 15-month-old child was left outside near a box of fertilizer, and the youngster reached the container while parents were working on the family lawn, the report said.

In another incident, two children were playing with the older one playing with resin dye in solution. The younger of the two, 13 months old, put some of the solution into its mouth.

A 23-month-old child climbed on a toilet and played with a drain-cleansing product, spilled some of the contents and tasted it.

In another incident, children were making mud pies and needed liquid to make them. One of the children climbed up and obtained some floor polish remover for this purpose. An 18-month-old child, playing with them, consumed one of the pies.

A mother was in a service station with her two-year-old child. A mechanic had poured brake fluid into a plastic container and placed the contents on a low barrel, where the child began to drink the fluid.

During the same period, the centre reported 16 cases involving patent medicines, and one of an illicit drug.

The patent medicines ranged from headache tablets to a laxative.

In the latter case, the report said the child's mother had discarded 16 to 18 squares into a wastepaper basket in a basement bedroom, and the child located the product before the mother emptied the basket.

NO INJURIES

There were no injuries, but $600 damage when a vehicle driven by M. Iyer of Kelowna was apparently forced off Highway 97 near Leathard Road and struck a pole about 4:40 p.m. Wednesday. Minor damage only was done in a collision between vehicles driven by Elaine Walker, Kelowna, and S. Hollis of Lumby, about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday.

More Sun Over Valley

Skies should remain sunny today and Friday as a high pressure system off the coast continues to build, bringing with it, warmer temperatures.

Winds should be light.

Wednesday's high was 84, the overnight low 53, and no precipitation was recorded.

Low tonight and high Friday 50 and 85.

ROUTINE CALLS
Six routine ambulance calls were answered by the Kelowna fire brigade. There were no fire or accident calls, officials said.

He came to Kelowna in 1928, and became an orchardist in 1944, continuing in orcharding until his retirement in 1958.

During his retirement he was instrumental in organizing two vineyards in the Oliver district and was a consultant for Andre Wines, Port Moody.

In addition he acted as interpreter in many court cases, since he was able to speak and write seven languages.

He also held the fourth degree in the Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Bachmann is survived by his wife, Katharina; two sons, Philip, Kelowna, Edward, Revelstoke; two daughters, Celeste, Vancouver, Rose (Mrs. Del Fletcher), Vancouver; ten grandchildren, one brother and two sisters.

Notifiable Disease Cases Up Sharply From Last Year

A sharp increase in the number of notifiable diseases was reported in the South Okanagan Health Unit for the third quarter of 1970, according to the health report issued for the area by medical director Dr. D. A. Clarke, Wednesday in Oliver.

There were 170 notifiable diseases recorded in the period May through July of this year, against 121 for the same three month period in 1969.

Marked increases were recorded in cases of chickenpox, measles, German measles and gonorrhea, although cancer, with 76 cases, was responsible for nearly half the cases.

The number of chickenpox cases jumped from four in 1969 to 18 in the corresponding period this year, while the number of measles cases increased from two to eight.

A rubella, or German measles case, was not reported in 1969, but 16 cases were recorded in the 1970 period. Gonorrhea showed an increase from 12 to 33 in the span of a year.

In the case of rubella, plans are under way through the provincial department of health and Kinsmen Clubs of B.C., and several municipalities to carry out a major rubella immunization program this fall.

To date, 100,000 doses of vaccine have been purchased at a cost of $100,000, by the provincial government, and it is hoped a further $200,000 can be raised to immunize all children up to the age of 12 years, throughout B.C. The vaccine cannot be administered to pregnant women or women who may become pregnant in the three month period following inoculation.

Most of 33 gonorrhea cases involved transient youth passing through the Okanagan, as well as young local teenagers. Many youth sought medical aid from the health centre and were supplied with Ampicillin capsules.

Two reports were received in the Kelowna area regarding suspected food poisoning, but food samples for bacteriological analysis failed to substantiate the complaints.

Also during the past six months, 19 youths from the South Okanagan Health Unit area appeared before Judge R. D. Collier for narcotic offenses.

Ten youths appeared for possession of marijuana, two for possession of LSD, four for trafficking in LSD and two more for possession of hashish. Six offenders were from Kelowna.

The following is a list of notifiable diseases for May, June and July of this year; with the figure for 1969 in brackets:

Cancer 76 (89), chickenpox 18 (4), infectious hepatitis 7 (6), infectious mononucleosis 1 (1), measles 8 (2), mumps 3 (1), Pertussis 0 (1), rubella 16 (0), salmonella 1 (1), scarlet fever 0 (0), shigella 0 (0), syphilis 0 (0) and gonorrhea 33 (12), and tuberculosis 7 (5).

Community Landfill Projects Improvements Considerable

The third quarterly report of the South Okanagan Health Unit, submitted Wednesday in Oliver, reports a considerable improvement in the overall picture with regard to establishment and operation of sanitary land fill areas for community disposal of garbage.

The favorable results follow letters sent by the health unit to each community, and the subsequent refusal of burning permits by the B.C. Forest Service during the dry season.

Letters were received by the health unit from most large communities. Reiterating their plans on the matter. However, passing of the Litter Act has not appeared to solve any problems in outlying areas and serious conditions are developing everywhere.

The problem of people camping or staying overnight along lakeshores and streams where there are no facilities are increasing each year and many local residents have complained about the conditions.

There are still no sewage disposal facilities with the exception of one in Benvenuto and one in Princeton for emptying retention tanks in trailers and pick-up camper units.

The Wally Byam Caravan group was observed in the Elk's Stadium Park in Kelowna to be discharging waste water onto the ground, in spite of reported statements by park personnel that they did not leave a mess behind.

Mr. Clark said a lack of a sewer system was causing problems, and if left too long, would cost "a lot of money."

He also asked council if any date was specified for the system.

Mr. Lawrence told council the area became part of the city in June, 1964. At that time, residents were promised water, immediately and sewage collection when requested by residents.

In 1966, a plebiscite was received, seeking a sewage system, but preliminary designs and cost estimates indicated the project would be too costly for area homeowners.

A bylaw, passed for improvement and expansion of the sewage treatment plant, included the Five Bridges sewage system.

The bylaw called for the sewage system to be done this year and council said this was still the plan.

Short Takes

Central Okanagan residents this week have had a good look at a 6 million dollar summer. Actually, the cost of fighting forest fires in the province is nearing the all-time record of $7 million set in 1967. A thick haze of smoke from several small area blazes has covered the area for days. The most recent forest fires have been caused by lightning, but the major holocausts have been caused by people. There seems to be at least a dozen aircraft (water bombers) turning the Okanagan sky into almost a major flying route. All this costs the people of B.C. money. Next time you complain about school shifts, or hospital cutbacks, remember there probably wouldn't be such a short supply of money if the government didn't have to spend several million dollars fighting "human forest fires."

A short takes reader says he feels sorry for the tourist drivers making left hand turns at the noon and supper restricted hours on Harvey Avenue. The signs in the middle of the intersection are so small it is easy to miss. There is no wording to indicate no left turns at certain hours just small arrows. We agree there should be a larger sign with specific instructions.

Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew admitted during the campaign that his name was not a household word. Come to find out, it's not even a household word around the White House. A reporter called the executive mansion recently and asked for Herb Thompson, a press aide in Mr. Agnew's office. "How do you spell that?" asked the White House operator. "T-H-O-M-P-S-O-N," replied the reporter. "No," said the operator, "How do you spell Agnew?"

The walkers hit the road Sept. 19 in aid of the Kelowna Swimming Pool Fund. The walk-a-thon is sponsored by Kiwanis and we are told it is not a race but a fun deal to raise dollars by getting a sponsor. The joggers—those guys and gals who get up early in the morning and jog a mile before breakfast—have the inside track. It can be fun for young and old, male or female. The route is in the south end through East Kelowna and does not cross any main highways. No traffic hazard or danger to walkers. The route was laid out by the sponsoring committee and the RCMP. There are a lot of refreshment stops, creeks and shade trees on the route to rest those tired muscles for short periods.

Smog is but one dramatic symptom of the rapidly increasing penalties of the overcrowding of humanity in the great cities of the world, says the Scotsman, Edinburgh. Technology is being outpaced by the pressure of numbers and as the millions multiply the quality of urban life deteriorates. Technology could be turned another way. It could be used, for instance, to restore the dereliction of the industrial process, to control pollution, to fertilize the deserts and bring back the forests, even to defuse the population explosion. The price would be heavy, and the idol of economics would totter, but the price will have to be paid while the rewards for it are still obtainable.

The automobile companies are concentrating on cars which look like racing cars but which are, in fact, only high-powered fakes. The genuine racing car is built for speed, and if driven by an expert, is safe at high speeds. The conventional false-styled "sports car" is not. This is a serious deception which officialdom, for the most part, appears content to ignore. Isn't it ironic that while we spend billions of dollars on accident "prevention," and on patching up the victims after the inevitable accidents happen, the automobile companies continue to build cars which will travel twice as fast as our laws permit, and much faster than the majority of drivers can handle safely?

Youth Unpredictable

(Chatham News)

Most authorities had predicted that when youngsters of 18 and up were allowed to vote they would turn the political world topsy-turvy.

Following the trend of demonstrations held on campus and in the streets of many cities and in many countries it was fully anticipated there would be a definite swing to the left in the result of elections.

And yet, just look at what happened in Great Britain.

One would have thought that, proud of the new privilege of exercising their franchise the young people would solidly back the principles they have loudly proclaimed.

It was anticipated that they would attend the polling booths in droves and make their weight felt.

They just didn't. They stayed away in large numbers and failed to make any impression on the results as many had anticipated. Labor did the same and the Conservatives swept to victory. Both young and Labor let their sides down.

British statistics anticipated an influx of three million new voters between the ages of 18 and 21. Only two million actually registered and only half of that number actually voted. . . . two million votes down the drain and that is enough to swing victory into defeat in any country.

Germany suffered the same thing and in the United States, the bill extending the franchise to the 18 to 21 group was signed by the President in June last. However, as soon as it was signed the Attorney General was instructed to submit it to the Supreme Court to test its legality. It was possible it might infringe the terms of the Constitution. In this case the number of potential voters is 11 million.

In any case the most surprising thing about the German and the British vote was that the youngsters followed their parents' political ideas and voted like them rather than for the left.

Many nations have or will modify their laws in the same way. It seems, however, that to get results from these modifications, the art of voting should be taught in schools.

Political scientists have voiced the opinion that young people were too bashful to go and vote.

DON'T ROCK THE BOAT

Canada Between Big Two In Nuclear No-Man's Land

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada, living in a nuclear no man's land between super-powers, is watching the forces at play in the latest phase of the American-Soviet competition for superiority in doomsday weaponry.

Closest to home is the anti-missile missile system, beginning to sprout at two U.S. sites just south of the Saskatchewan and Alberta borders.

It could ripen into a billions-of-dollars protective shield against Soviet and Chinese rockets, scientific observers here say. Or it may prove no more than a pawn in the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks in Vienna.

This was indicated in a White House announcement in mid-August that the U.S. had offered to give up its anti-missile defence system entirely if the Soviet Union would agree to limit the number of its huge SS-9 offensive missiles and abandon its own missile defences.

COULD UPSET BALANCE

The U.S. so far hasn't asked for and doesn't need Canadian participation for defensive missiles planned to seek out and destroy any attacking nuclear warheads, looped at the U.S., from the north high over Canada.

But if that system should be extended, Canadian co-operation might well be needed and sought, it is suggested.

Canada's view is that any anti-missile defence system is harmful to prospects of a nuclear truce, beyond the existing curbs on testing of nuclear weapons as observed by the U.S., Russia and Britain. Canada thinks the counter-missile could upset the balance of U.S. and Soviet deterrent forces, setting off an even greater arms race.

The 1968 agreement to continue for five additional years the North American Air Defence Command, in which Canada co-operates with the U.S. for anti-bomber defence, carried this stipulation:

"This agreement will not involve in any way a Canadian commitment to participate in an active ballistic missile defence."

The U.S. has not pressed the matter.

"There is no urgency in their minds for us to participate," says Dr. J. P. Riddell of the defence research board.

KEEP IN TOUCH

Defence scientists keep in close touch with developments in both anti-missile and offensive missile weaponry for obvious reasons.

No matter how little enthusiasm Canadians generally might have for weapons of mass destruction, Canada nevertheless does lie between the U.S. at one side and the U.S.S.R. and China on the other.

The flight paths of any long-range nuclear missiles fired in either direction lie over Canada. Only missiles fired from the far Pacific coast of Asia heading for southern California would miss Canada—and not by much.

"We are in no man's land and we always will be," said Dr. G. R. Lindsey, director of defence research analysis. "That is something that is simply a fact of geography."

One consequence is that a nuclear explosion with the power of millions of tons of TNT might take place over Canada.

Spartan defensive missiles, to be stationed in the northern states under President Nixon's Safeguard anti-missile system, have a range of about 400 miles.

Interceptions of attacking Soviet or Chinese missiles would—if the system works properly—occur above Canadian territory at a height of about 75 miles, it is said.

Defence scientists say the explosion of the nuclear-tipped defending missile, designed to destroy attacking warheads by "cooking" them with radiation, would occur far enough above the atmosphere for fallout to be negligible.

Radioactive waste would be carried away in the stratosphere and dispersed, they say.

However, a person on the ground who happened to be looking at the blast could suffer permanent eye damage.

A second safeguard system missile is the shorter-range and less powerful Sprint, designed to take out any attacking weapons that escape the Spartan and re-enter the atmosphere.

It is less certain whether such explosions and fallout would occur over Canada.

Dr. Lindsey has said that even if a Sprint warhead burst three miles above the ground, it would produce no fallout and no important radiation or heat risk. It probably would break some windows.

At an altitude of 20 miles, Sprint would not produce any of these hazards. Its maximum range is about 35 miles.

The exact location of the western launching pads, to be built in the vicinity of Great Falls, Mont., and Grand Forks, N.D., has not yet been determined yet.

FUNDS ARE VOTED

Great Falls is about 80 miles and Grand Forks about 50 miles south of the border. They are the only two sites in the projected 12-base Safeguard system for which Congress has voted funds.

President Nixon is asking authorization for an additional site in Missouri, plus authority to do advanced preparation work for five other sites.

The five include three "footprints"—or ranges—extending into Canada: the Northeast, Northwest and Michigan-Ohio areas.

The avowed purposes of the Safeguard system are to protect the U.S. attack-missile arsenals from Soviet weapons; protect U.S. cities against a slowly developing threat from Chinese long-range rockets, and provide protection against accidental missile launchings from any source.

A new emphasis on protecting American attack weapons is partly attributable to Russia's development of powerful new missile carriers capable of hurling warheads at more than one target.

U.S. planners fear this development poses the threat of a surprise overwhelming strike at the heart of the nuclear deterrent, possibly by the mid-1970s. The U.S., however, also is developing its own multi-headed attack missiles.

NEED WORKING OUT

Experts here say that while the Safeguard program does not require a Canadian contribution to achieve its goal, it could provide protection for large numbers of Canadians.

Dr. Lindsey has said this "depends on factors that would have to be worked out in great detail."

One obvious unknown: whether the U.S. authorities would choose to have the system intercept a missile aimed at Canada.

If the U.S. ever decides to construct a heavy anti-missile system, as opposed to the currently planned light one, the picture in regard to Canadian participation could change radically, experts say.

The use of Canadian bases might then be considered mandatory for effective defence of the U.S.

The radar eyes of the anti-missile system would be more effective the farther north they could probe for enemy warheads. Canada might find itself under heavy pressure from Washington to permit construction of anti-missile sites on its soil.

"Remember, Russia and China are north of the U.S.—not west," says a defence researcher.

NEWS ANALYSIS

On Withdrawing From Vietnam

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Senators McGovern, a Democrat, and Hatfield a Republican, have introduced an amendment in the U.S. Senate demanding that all American troops be pulled out of South Vietnam by the end of 1971. This will generate heated debate in the U.S. and will be opposed by President Nixon though he would like nothing better than to pull all his troops out of Southeast Asia by the end of 1971, some 10 months before he has to meet the voters. Mr. Nixon will win and should win the vote on this issue in the Senate when the issue comes to the vote. McGovern and Hatfield will increase their support among the liberals but they will not have support from a majority of the U.S. people.

Not that most Americans do not want to be done with South Vietnam. They do. But the argument used by Vice-President Agnew has had its effect: if the U.S. will pull out by a certain date, why should they make peace? The argument does not stop there. If the U.S. says it will pull out no matter what, the Communists can and will present this as a victory to the peasants of South Vietnam: the Communists will say that the U.S. is pulling out but taking many months to do it so as to do it with as little risk as possible.

This Communist argument will be believed by members of the South Vietnamese armed forces. These men will start thinking actively about how to earn their pardon from the Communists: South Vietnamese defections will increase; there might even be South Vietnamese attacks on U.S. units.

GUARANTEES

This, of course, is what has made withdrawal so impossible a solution and it is not the solution Mr. Nixon is aiming at. He is aiming at a solution resembling the one in Korea, with the South Vietnamese army taking over from the Americans. But for the South Vietnamese army to do this effectively, it must believe that it is not being abandoned by the Americans. It must believe that a sizeable U.S. force will remain in South Vietnam, a force that can hold a substantial bridgehead through which reinforcements could come in should the North Vietnamese Army openly invade the South.

It is this sort of arrangement that has made for relative stability in South Korea. The presence of 50,000 U.S. troops there faces the Korean Communists with the possibility of having to fight the U.S. all over again as in 1950 and see North Korea utterly destroyed by U.S. bombardment. The presence of U.S. troops is a guarantee for the anti-Communist side that it will not be left to fight alone and a warning to the Communists that they face terrible damage if they attack.

The presence of 100,000 U.S. troops in South Vietnam after the end of 1971 will not settle the guerrilla war, but it will guarantee that the North Vietnamese Army will not openly march in.

OTTAWA REPORT

Information Costs (Just Waste Taxes)

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The mandarins of any bureaucracy and their apparatus must be Exhibit "A" in unfavorable comparison with a normal commercial enterprise, as regards economy, speed, customer-satisfaction and efficiency. Every democratic government professes experience to expedition, fumbling to firing, and pigeon-holes to provident action.

Ottawa is no exception.

A Liberal MP has been probing one field of bureaucratic waste and arrogance, which is familiar to every taxpayer but little known to the taxpayer. This is the largely unsolicited and often too slow dissemination of government news through press releases sent to newspapers and broadcasting stations by government information staffs.

There are 545 Information Officers employed by the federal government at Ottawa, with an annual payroll of $4,939,269. The total cost of those government information services, as reported last year by the Task Force on Information, is $148 million. That Task Force deplored the duplication, bungling and incompetence, which it found within those services and suggested that the $148 million cost each year represents an almost complete loss to the taxpayer. Their tardy and unsought press releases deserve those strictures; but on the other hand I find almost invariably that information officers courteously try to be totally helpful in reply to my own enquiries.

LIBERAL MP ASKS COST

Rud Whitting, the Liberal MP from Oakville, Ont., addressed a question to the government, asking: How many newspapers in Canada receive those press releases? What are the mailing costs? How much did it cost to produce those press releases in 1968 and 1969? and how much of the taxpayers' money could be saved if those unsolicited distributions of press releases were ceased?

Instead of honest informative answers, the mandarins dumped a load of whitewash onto Mr. Whitting. The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, for example, which is dedicated to the principle that the consumer should receive a fair deal, gave Mr. Whitting an answer which amounted to contempt of Parliament.

liament. Maybe this just reflected the cynicism felt by many mandarins towards "Our Masters" the Ministers, and even more towards the ordinary backbench MP.

That department told Mr. Whitting that there are 1,119 newspapers on its mailing list, and that the cost of producing press releases last year was just $510. That is less than 50 cents per newspaper for all the press releases sent out during the year. That obviously incomplete figure would not even pay for the envelopes; certainly not for the elaborate stiff folders and exhibits distributed; and clearly not for the labor in compiling and printing those press releases. "Cost of production" was obviously interpreted in some narrow sense, to make the department appear economical and incidentally making Rud "Mr. Whitewashed".

NOBODY WANTS THEM

In all, 18 government departments provided some sort of answer to Mr. Whitting's questions. Together, they admitted production costs of news releases to total a bewilderingly small $74,331.15. But some explained that these figures did not include any labor costs "because such work is part of the staff's routine task." Of course, but it was those costs and others for which an MP asked.

One newspaper carried out a survey of this inflow of so-called junk mail. Typically each newspaper received during 1969 about 1,750 separate mailings from Ottawa, weighing an average of 1.9 ounces each, and costing $191.90 to mail. Material costs would have been up to 10 times that figure per newspaper, and composition and printing up to 20 times. Some 900 English language papers and 219 French, plus some ethnic press, 225 periodicals and 150 embassies here and abroad all receive some or all of those press releases, which are largely unsolicited and mostly too late. A survey of about 40 Thomson Newspapers showed that, with just one exception, no paper had ever made any use of a single one of those press releases.

One hundred and forty eight million dollars a year they cost. It's your money.

University Women Urged To Take Leadership Role In Community

TORONTO (Special)—Women who have had the opportunity to obtain a university education must develop a social conscience, committed to spearheading projects such as driver education, parent-teacher associations, and hospital auxiliaries, says Mrs. Margaret Orange, president of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

Mrs. Orange told the Toronto bureau of the Courier, women with post-secondary school education need to share part of their knowledge by taking active leadership roles in community projects and voluntary organizations.

She says involvement is important in the active world where leadership leads to success.

AROUSE INTEREST

For the past three years Mrs. Orange, Sudbury mother of six children, has directed the 11,000 member organization towards greater concern with community projects and with current problems including Indian affairs, pollution, and education. She said the purpose of the organization is to arouse and sustain interest of members in public affairs and the political and social cultural fields.

More than 400 delegates, representing clubs from across Canada and as far north as Whitehorse, met at York University, Toronto for the 18th triennial conference of the federation.

Mrs. Orange is a 1948 charter member of the Sudbury club. She is a graduate of the University of Toronto with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

She has been a member of the national executive for 12 years.

Mrs. Orange is a former non-resident dean of women at the University of Sudbury. She is a member of the board of governors at Elliott Lake Centre for Continuing Education.

Her husband, Dr. Robert Orange, is an anaesthetist in Sudbury.

HITHER and YON

Back from an enjoyable week at the coast are the John Dyck family. Mr. Dyck, as president of the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association, attended the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association's convention in Vancouver, and was accompanied by Mrs. Dyck and Lori, Derek and Earl. The young people took advantage of the wonderful pool at the Bayshore Inn and also found the tour of Stanley Park interesting. Mrs. Dyck was a guest at several luncheons, including the UBC luncheon at the Cecil Green residence and another at the Canyon Gardens. She also enjoyed the tour of the harbor.

Recent visitors from Santa Barbara, Calif. were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jewson and their son Jeff who visited with their aunt and uncle, Col. and Mrs. J. D. Gemmill of Abbott Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ingram of Edmonton who were recent guests at Mountain Shadows, enjoyed touring Kelowna with a view to retiring here.

September bride-elect, Vivian Mowbray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Mowbray, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. F. M. Upton, Braeclough subdivision. Co-hostess for the pleasant morning coffee party was Mrs. Orby Boakes.

The honoree, her mother and the groom's mother, Mrs. W. T. J. Bulman, were presented with corsages upon their arrival. Karen Bulman, the groom-to-be's sister, assisted the guest of honor with the opening of the many beautiful gifts from the long-time family friends of the groom's.

The enjoyable event, attended by some 20 guests, was concluded with the serving of dainty refreshments by the hostesses.

Mrs. Robert Allison was the guest of honor recently on the occasion of her 92nd birthday at a lovely afternoon tea at the Abbott Street home of Col. J. D. Gemmill and Mrs. Gemmill. A specially decorated birthday cake was served the guests who drank the honoree's health. Among those wishing her happy returns of the day was J. B. Blackmore, an old family friend from Vancouver.

OKANAGAN MISSION

Holiday visitors from the coast enjoying a visit with Mrs. F. I. Crossley of Paret Road are her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Gray and her daughter, Alison of North Vancouver, who are spending a week or two in the Okanagan. Other members of the Gray family also visiting at the Paret Road home are Colin Gray, home for a holiday from Burlington, Ont., and Peter and Malcolm Gray of Vancouver.

Other guests with Mrs. Crossley include Mrs. Phillip Garraway and two daughters, Gillian and Brenda of North Vancouver and Sorrento and Robert Tennant and Tony Hume of North Vancouver and West Vancouver, respectively.

Recent visitors in the Valley were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Graham and their three children, Linda, Robert and Keith of Foam Lake, Sask. They were returning from the coast where Mr. Graham represented the Saskatchewan Pharmaceutical Association at the recent convention in Vancouver.

Cramps Didn't Keep Pioneer Women From The Covered Wagon Trails

WASHINGTON (AP)—"The pioneer women, making their way across the prairie, didn't take time out for the cramps," said Dr. Estelle R. Ramey as 200 women of the Women's National Press Club cheered.

When Dr. Edgar F. Berman, who has been portrayed as the nemesis of women's liberation, tried to dispute the argument, his words were drowned in a cacophony of throat clearing.

"One lady wrote," Berman began, "that when she read about my remarks in her newspaper, 'I was so angry I sat right down to write you a letter, but my cramps were so bad...'"

But he never finished. His statement trailed off as the noise from the audience grew in volume.

It was Dr. Berman who suggested at a Democratic Party meeting that women might not be physiologically fit for some high-level leadership positions because pre-menstrual tension or menopause might render them less than rational under great pressure.

I have just received a list (17 items) which my former fiancée would like returned. The list dates back to 1962. Her memory astounds me.

I asked the advice of a friend who was in a similar spot last year. He said, "Give everything back or you'll never get rid of her."

Incidentally, she is NOT returning the engagement ring! May I hear your views on this subject?—Fence-Sitting

Dear Fence: Eight years is a long time to just "go with" a girl and she is undoubtedly trying to get even—poor thing. Your friend gave you sound advice and I hope you take it. In the meantime, the lady is entitled to the ring if the gentleman breaks the engagement, which I'll bet you did.

Where, When, What And Who Supplied By Information Services

The Community Information Service and Volunteer Bureau reopens for service on Sept. 1 after a summer recess.

In its fifth year of operation the bureau is manned by volunteers who carry on the telephone answering service daily, Monday to Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Persons seeking information on a wide variety of services pertaining to health, welfare, recreation and education may obtain answers by dialing 762-3608.

The bureau, supported by an annual grant of $300 from the Central Okanagan Community Chest, is located in the latter's office at 1564 Pandosy St., where a telephone has been made available for the information service. The grant is used solely for stamp and stationery supplies and advertising expenses, since all personnel are voluntary.

The dual purpose of the community information services and volunteer bureau not only refers people to appropriate agencies and services, but at the same time takes names of persons interested in volunteer community work.

Information is provided on questions about health, welfare, education and recreation as well as counselling for personal problems. The bureau also helps persons seeking information on vacancies in local boarding homes, kindergartens and day care centres.

Requests vary from day to day but the bureau manages to cope with many unusual needs.

For example, an American soldier amputee visiting with a brother and sister-in-law who both work during the days, was unable to get out of bed, due to complications arising from his trip. The problem was solved by a call to the bureau who put him in touch with Meals on Wheels, where he could purchase a hot meal during the day. They also contacted the Homemakers Service and the Kelowna Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

In another instance an elderly woman on social assistance, was unable to cut her lawn. A call to A.S.H., the Association for Self Help, soon recruited a volunteer from among their members who took care of the chore.

The bureau also acts as a recruiting centre for volunteers interested in serving the community. There are many agencies needing volunteer helpers, such as hospital service, recreation centres, clinics, health and welfare and cultural agencies.

Anyone interested in donating a few hours a week or a few hours a day, whenever they can, morning, noon or night, may contact the bureau and be directed to the agency best suited for their particular talents.

NEED 'HELLO' GIRLS

The bureau itself is at this time in need of 'hello girls' and persons interested in assisting this important communication centre, may volunteer by dialing 762-3608 after Sept. 1 or contacting the director, Mrs. F. M. Upton or her assistant Mrs. Orby Boake.

Hamper Of Gifts Presented To September Bride-Elect

A delightful surprise shower was held recently in honor of bride-elect, Julie Lillo, whose marriage to Donald Serl of Kelowna will take place Sept. 26 in Kelowna.

John Kilpatrick and Irene Johnson were co-hostesses for the event, which was held at Miss Kilpatrick's home on Hardie Road in Rutland. Upon her arrival, Miss Lillo was escorted to a beautifully decorated chair and presented with a gardenia corsage.

Following the playing of games, the bride-elect was presented with many useful gifts in a decorated hamper. Her sister, Karen Lillo, who is to be her maid-of-honor, assisted her in opening the gifts and fashioned for the bride-elect a hat from the gift ribbons.

Mrs. Reg Marshall and Mrs. Lorne McCarty assisted in the serving of refreshments. Among those present were the honoree's mother, Mrs. E. J. Lillo, friends, and fellow employees of the Crown Zellerbach Plywood Division, where the bride-elect is employed for the summer months.

MAKE HAGGIS WHOOPEE

DONCASTER, England (CP)—Sassenach Philip Wood's haggis seem to have a side effect that traditional Scottish varieties don't possess—several wives who have tried them became pregnant soon afterwards.

Four women who had been trying unsuccessfully to have babies attribute their happy events to his recipe. "I don't know if the haggis promotes pregnancy or just acts as a kind of aphrodisiac," he says.

WORST AIR POLLUTION BUDAPEST (AP)—After London, the Hungarian capital is the worst big city in the world for air pollution, city council sources say. WCHL Tie Up For The Good

By LORNE WHITE

People are funny. Last season, if you recall, there were nothing but complaints coming from Kelownians about their no good 12% junior hockey team.

What was wrong with the management they asked. Isn't there a coach around that can control those pot-smoking hippies on skates? Why don't the other cities have the problems we have? What's happened to the calibre of junior hockey in B.C. anyway?

Now after the announcement by that wheezing, dealing president of the Western Canada Hockey League, Ron Butlin, that his 10-team loop will have a definite affiliation with the tier two B.C. Junior Hockey League, people are starting to worry all over again.

Why can't we keep our good players in the province instead of sending them to prairie market? Why not upgrade our hockey to tier one standards and compete competitively for the Memorial Cup? What will happen to my son if he goes to that hockey machine in the east?

A simple answer to all. British Columbia players can't skate, and may never get the chance.

It's like teaching a pygmy to be a high jumper, an Eskimo to surf, or Phyllis Diller to model.

Kelowna has about as much facilities to produce hockey players as Hawaii has to stage the winter Olympics.

There's one arena, 670 kids and 11 hours a season of ice time for each.

Too many of the other B.C. centres are in the same boat, and we all would have sank together had it not been for the lifesaver on the prairies.

You may point out that B.C. has some top notch juniors playing in the WCHL, and others have gone on to start in the pro ranks. Some, but not many.

You can probably count them on two hands and still have enough fingers left to light a cigarette.

The players that have gone to the WCHL and pro ranks, for the most part, have been naturals, had a knowledgeable coach along the line who stayed with him through the minor hockey ranks, or had a father who managed the local arena.

It certainly wasn't from daily practice on the ice—there isn't any. It's harder to find than a Frenchman cheering for the Maple Leafs in the Montreal Forum.

The question of Kelowna players making the Buckaroos ranks has been asked many times.

I maintain that junior hockey can get away with not having locals on the club, and any that do make the grade are a bonus for public relations.

Hockey fans are more interested in the calibre of hockey, mainly because they are knowledgeable, unlike most senior baseball fans in the Valley, who like to identify themselves with the players.

This is the reason for the popularity of softball in the city, compared to baseball, which had a winner this season, but still had trouble drawing the people.

Hockey fans find it easy to identify with the players, be they from B.C., the prairies, or the east.

Players like Garth Rizuto, Butch Deadmarsh and Gene Carr, although not from Kelowna, played with the Buckaroos, and most fans follow their careers quite closely and like to think of them as a Kelowna product.

This is what the WCHL will exemplify even more with their BCJHL tie ups.

In Kelowna, the Buckaroos will get player, financial, and scouting aid from Saskatoon Blades.

The player aid will be coming soon, with the Bucks' camp opening Sept. 19, the financial help is already here, and the scouting is in the process.

Each WCHL team has a protected list, with the players on it being traded, sold, or let go, similar to the pro ranks. Therefore, situations that arose in the past, involving Kelowna players leaving for other teams cannot happen without the permission of the club with which he is signed.

Kelowna will be allowed six players from Saskatoon, most of whom will be in the 15- to 18-year-old age group, sent here for grooming. Should one of the young stars be needed in Saskatoon, he will be replaced in adequate fashion.

Wayne North, manager-coach of the Buckaroos, has been promised by chief Jackie McLeod, however, that movement of players will be limited—it remains to be seen.

The whole thing boils down to the fact that we in the B.C. Interior are going to get a second rate calibre of hockey—there's no arguing the fact. And people are fooling themselves if they think they can do any better. But at least it'll be second rate, competitive, and most likely exciting hockey, and not any worse, as it has been for the past couple of years.

Winnipeg Stuns Argonauts 28-22

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan Roughriders took a four-point lead in the Western Football Conference Wednesday night while the Winnipeg Blue Bombers scored a stunning upset over the Eastern Conference Toronto Argonauts.

The Roughriders pushed back a fourth-quarter onslaught and nipped Calgary Stampeders 21-17. The win left them with 10 points in the WFC, two games ahead of the Stampeders and British Columbia Lions, each with six points.

The Blue Bombers' 28-22 victory over the Argonauts was their first in five starts this season. It put them into a fourth-place WFC tie with Edmonton Eskimos, also with one win and five losses.

Tonight, Ottawa Rough Riders are counting heavily on quarterback Gary Wood in their interlocking game with British Columbia Lions at Vancouver.

After six years of riding the bench in the National Football League, Wood is playing No. 1 and liking it with Ottawa.

The Bombers trailed Toronto by one point until the final minute of the game when Wally Gahler hit Ken Nielsen with a 40-yard touchdown pass. Bob Houmard, Winnipeg's tough full-back, got the other three touchdowns and Gene Lukasiak finished 4-4 on the converts.

Argos, who split quarterbacking between Don Jones and Tom Wilkinson, trailed 14-8 at the half but grabbed a slim 15-14 lead in the third quarter.

SYMONS GOT TWO

Bill Symons crossed the line twice for Toronto and Mel Profit took a 16-yard pass in the final quarter to round out the scoring. Jones booted three converts and a single.

Winnipeg's first-up defence thwarted the Argos time and again and on four occasions good defensive play stood off threatening Toronto attacks.

Houmard carried 14 passes for 53 yards and caught five passes for 62 yards. Amos Van Pelt, the other Winnipeg workhorse, rolled up 100 yards offense, including a 32-yard scamper.

Symons again stood out for the Argos, carrying 14 times for 71 yards and taking one pass for 21 yards. Former Winnipeg halfback Dave Rainey ran four times for 36 yards but piled up 56 yards through the air.

Jones threw only one Toronto touchdown pass and was charged with one of two interceptions. He was good on nine of 17 passes while Wilkinson connected on nine of 10.

The Argos went for 23 first downs and 407 yards total offense while Winnipeg got 22 first downs and 368 yards.

STARTED SLOW

Saskatchewan and Calgary provided mediocre entertainment for the first 30 minutes; each team scored one field goal. The second half exploded into a fierce battle with both teams scoring two touchdowns and Saskatchewan kicking a field goal and a single.

Roughriders led 11-3 at the end of the third quarter but continued to apply the pressure and took a comfortable 21-3 lead.

Calgary fought back with two converted touchdowns but Saskatchewan held the line and their four-point advantage.

Dave Denny and Henry Dorsch got the Saskatchewan touchdowns with Jack Abend-schan adding the kicking points. Calgary's touchdowns came from Hugh McKinnis and Craig Kolman. Larry Robinson kicked the field goal.

George Reed, Saskatchewan's powerful running back, made his first appearance in recent games and still showed the effects of a knee injury. He carried 13 times for only 27 yards.

Silas McKinnis was the top Roughrider ball-carrier with 33 yards in eight tries while Stampeder fullback Hugh McKinnis gained 50 yards on 10 carries.

Herman Harrison caught four Calgary passes for 73 yards and Nolan Bailey of Saskatchewan caught five for 61.

Stampeder, led by quarterback Jerry Keeling, were good on 16 of 30 passes for 252 yards.

Saskatchewan, with Ron Lancaster at the helm, hit 18 times in 31 attempts for 258 yards.

ROXBURGH

His Last Chance To Take Junior

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver is competing in his fifth Canadian junior golf championship and this is his last chance to win.

The 18-year-old golfer fired a one-over-par 69 at Brightwood Golf and Country Club Tuesday for a one-stroke lead after the first round.

But he has yet to put together a strong back nine.

In all four, he's gone over par on the back nine.

He was three strokes under par going on to the 13th tee during the first round. His trouble started there. He went one over par on both the 13th and 14th holes, and went two over regulation count on number 16.

Robbie Jackson, 15, of Ile-Bizard, Que., trails in second place with a 70 while Fred Colton of Vancouver and Steve Konec of Hamilton carded 72s for third place.

The field of 154 golfers will be cut to the top 60 and ties after today's second round. Only the survivors will play the final 36 holes Friday and Saturday.

Roxburgh has been a member of the B.C. junior interprovincial team for four straight years. He was third in last year's national junior competitions and in the semi-finals for two straight years when the title was determined through medal play. He was named Monday as an alternate to the team representing Canada in the world amateur team championships at Madrid, Spain, in September.

After going through the front nine in the team championships Wednesday, three strokes under par, his play on the back nine fell apart, starting with number 13, where he overshot the green.

He took a five on the par-four 14th and ran into trouble again on Brightwood's only par five, number 16, 455 yards in length with a green bordered by sand traps. He went one over par.

PUTTING IMPROVED

Jackson, a member of the Quebec team that won the Canadian team championship here Tuesday, said that it was his putting that came through.

He carved out a par-34 round on the front nine and then went two strokes over on the way home.

His first-round score was strong enough to give him the lead in juvenile competition for the Jack Bailey Trophy. It is the first time a trophy has been offered for juvenile competitors, 16 years old and under.

Champagne Foams Over As Merritt Wins 20th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Merritt must have known something. Why else would the slick Cincinnati Reds Southpaw stash away nearly a case of champagne in his locker before the game?

"You don't win 20 games every day," said the 26-year-old hurler after he became the first left-hander in 45 years to win 20 for the Reds.

Merritt didn't last all the way, going 6-2-3 in his first start before Wayne Granger came on to save the memorable victory as the Reds edged Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 Wednesday night.

Merritt, who has lost 10 decisions, became the National League's first 20-game winner this season although he gave up 15 hits before Granger bailed him out. Dave McNally of Baltimore Orioles has 20 victories in the American League. The last Cincinnati lefty to win 20 was Eppa Rixey, who was 21-11 in 1925.

In other NL action, Atlanta Braves dropped New York Mets 9-7, San Diego Padres edged Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1, Los Angeles Dodgers beat Chicago Cubs 8-5, Houston Astros topped Montreal Expos 5-4 and San Francisco Giants edged St. Louis Cardinals 6-7.

Merritt had a 6-2 edge before the Phils unloaded for three runs in the seventh, knocking him out.

Tony Perez slammed his 39th homer of the year and Bernie Carbo had a three-run shot for the Reds, his 21st. Don Money cracked a two-run homer for the Phils.

Hank Aaron slammed his 35th homer of the year, triggering a three-run, Atlanta ninth-inning that overcame a 7-6 Mets lead. Aaron's two-run shot and No. 589 of his career capped an uphill battle by the Braves, who at one time trailed 7-1.

Orlando Cepeda, Clete Boyer and Bob Tillyman added homers for Atlanta while Art Shamsky and Wayne Garrett had two-run blasts for New York.

SPIEZIO HOMERS

Ed Spiezio drilled a two-run homer—his 10th round-tripper of the year—in the seventh inning, sending the Padres to their second straight victory over the Pirates. Despite the loss Pittsburgh remains three games in front of the Mets in the East.

Pat Dobson, 10-13, allowed 12 hits but the Pirates scored only in the sixth on John Jeter's single, stolen base and Roberto Clemente's run-scoring single.

Jim Lefebvre clouted a three-run homer and Claude Osteen captured his 14th victory with relief help from Jim Brewer as the Dodgers stopped the Cubs, who trail the Pirates by 4½ games. John Callison had a two-run homer for Chicago.

Denis Menke drilled a three-run homer in the ninth inning of the Astros triumph. Cesar Cedeno added a homer in the ninth for Houston. Jim Gosger had put Montreal ahead 3-1 in the eighth with a three-run shot.

Jim Ray Hart greeted reliever Frank Linzy with a run-scoring single that gave the Giants their victory over the Cards. Lou Brock, who stole three bases, slugged a homer for the Cards while Willie Mays held a two-run shot and Willie McCovey ripped his 33rd of the year.

Bob Murphy Is Back

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Two years ago, Bob Murphy climaxed a summer hot streak that won him $70,000 in three weeks by cruising over the Upper Montclair Country Club course to the final Thunderbird Open title.

The portly 27-year-old is back at the scene of that victory, without a tournament win since, but confident that his chances are as good as anyone's in the $300,000 Dow Jones Open, which opened today on the 7,085-yard Upper Montclair Course. He says that despite the challenges attracted by the $60,000 first prize.

"I guess anybody who can afford a plane ticket is here," Murphy said after shooting a one-over-par 73 in the pro-amateur Wednesday.

Murphy's triumph here two years ago came during a three-week period in which he had two firsts and a second.

The competition, with 57 of last year's top 60 money winners on hand, figures to be the stiffest of the year. The favorites include Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Gary Player and Bruce Crampton.

Also entered are PGA champion Dave Stockton, U.S. Open winner Tony Jacklin, and such consistent winners as Lee Trevino, Julius Boros, Dave Hill, Orville Moody, Tom Weiskopf and the veteran Sam Snead.

Buford Propels Baltimore

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Buford cuffed Jim Hunter for a two-run homer Wednesday night, propelling the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-1 victory over the fading Oakland Athletics.

Elsewhere, a bomb scare in Cleveland failed to rattle Steve Hargan, who pitched the Indians to a 7-2 victory over Milwaukee Brewers; Minnesota Twins blanked Boston Red Sox 7-0 on rookie Bert Blyleven's four-hitter; the New York Yankees topped Kansas City Royals 3-0 behind Stan Bahnsen; California Angels beat Detroit Tigers 6-3 and the Chicago White Sox downed Washington Senators 3-1.

Buford's 14th homer of the season, a third-inning shot over the right-center field fence, gave Jim Palmer all the impetus he needed to gain his 18th victory. Buford also singled off reliever Bob Locker in the seventh and boosted his season batting average to .275.

Palmer, who has lost seven, scattered six hits, including a homer by Felipe Alou in the fourth, as the Orioles breezed to their ninth win in 10 games.

Hunter, 15-12, has lost four in a row while the A's have dropped five straight and nine of their last 10 starts.

IGNORE BOMB THREAT
Home runs by Ted Uhlaender and rookie Roy Foster broke up a close game at Cleveland and gave Hargan his sixth straight victory since being recalled from the minors early last month.

A telephone report that a bomb would explode in Cleveland Stadium at 8 p.m., EDT, failed to halt the game and the deadline passed without incident. Police, however, made a search of the stands before the start of the game.

A similar bomb threat forced evacuation of Metropolitan Stadium in Minnesota during Tuesday night's game between the Twins and Boston.

Blyleven hurled the Twins out of a three-game tailspin by taming the Red Sox for his first major league shutout. Cesar Tovar drove in three runs with a single and double off Ray Culp, a longtime Minnesota nemesis, as the Twins protected their 3½-game West Division lead over second-place California.

Bahnsen stopped Kansas City on five hit and the Yankees jumped on Wally Bunker for three first-inning runs to hand the winless right-hander his eighth loss.

California's Clyde Wright picked up his 18th victory with relief help from Ken Tatum as the Angels beat Denny McLain on homers by Roger Repoz and Ken McMullen.

Syd O'Brien and Carlos May hit home runs for the White Sox.

DUKE AND DEVILS
WOLVERHAMPTON, England (CP) — The Duke of Edinburgh recently faced up to three long-haired motorbike "devils" in Staffordshire. With one arm in a sling, the Duke was in no position to defend himself which, luckily, was not necessary. He had a good look at their Hell's Angels-type uniforms and said cheerfully:
"You have more medals than I have."

Open Dating On Food Packets May Be A Little While In U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — A New York congressman whose bill to require open dating of food packages on grocery shelves is buried in committee, has asked the Federal Trade Commission to impose such regulations, and to include canned foods.

Leonard Farstein (Dem. N.Y.) says package foods and canned foods do not last indefinitely, and he wants the FTC to require manufacturers to replace their coded dating system, which few consumers understand, with dating system which all can read.

Farstein introduced legislation last fall after conducting surveys of supermarkets which he said showed large quantities of out-of-date foods were being sold.

He said some store managers repackaged items with new labels and code dates on meat and poultry, substituting their own judgment as to when the items should be removed from the shelves.

WOULD REMOVE

One store manager who ignored coded dates, he said, told surveyors he would remove poultry from sale when it began to smell or turn reddish or yellowish, or when little growth began to appear.

The legislation Farstein introduced last fall would require every food item subject to deterioration to be openly dated.

The date shown on the package would be one day after that on which the shelf life of the food would normally expire.

It would apply to foods packaged by the producer, wholesaler, retailer, or distributor. The secretary of health, education and welfare would be authorized to determine how long a food could safely be kept on the shelf before it begins to deteriorate.

Further Causes Of Edema Given

By George C. Hostetson, M.D.

(Second in a series of two articles)

As we grow older, some causes of edema, or dropsy, come into play other than the ones discussed yesterday.

Faulty circulation, of varying types, is an important cause of this fluid retention or edema. With slowed circulation, fluids tend to accumulate in the tissues and stay there.

A failing heart can cause fluid accumulation in the lungs as well as in the legs. Patients with a certain degree of heart failure should be more comfortable, and breathe easier, sitting in a chair instead of laying down. Why? Because fluid accumulates more in the legs than in the lungs.

Varicose veins, a quite different form of impaired circulation, can cause fluid accumulation and hence swelling of the legs. The veins no longer carry blood upward as efficiently as they should, so the net result is poor circulation. Tight circular garters and panty girdles can also restrict circulation enough to cause swelling in the legs and ankles.

Kidney disorders (Bright's disease or other conditions involving the glomeruli, or tiny filtering units in the kidneys) are another notorious cause of edema.

This is not strictly a disease of the older person; a good many children develop acute nephritis, which is also a kidney disease.

Kidney edema is featured by swelling of the face, eyelids, and upper extremities.

Still another, and important, cause of edema is that related to cirrhosis of the liver. In this case, fluid accumulates in the abdomen creating a protruding pot belly, but swelling of the legs also is usually noted. (This fluid accumulating in the abdomen is referred to as ascites, pronounced a-SIGH-tis-ease. It can reach large amounts, and in this case sometimes can, and needs to, be drawn off by hollow needle.)

In heart failure, salt restrictions, diuretics, digitalis to strengthen the heart action, and other measures as dictated by specific circumstances are the basic measures.

Salt restriction is important in kidney and liver edema, but of course intensive treatment to control the basic disorders is mandatory. Diuretics can help. Indeed, diuretics to encourage greater release of fluids by the body are useful in most forms of edema except those due to allergy, tight garments, and varicose veins.

I am aware that this may not answer all the questions concerning edema, because edema can become a very complicated matter, but today's column and yesterday's will at least give some inkling of what it's about, and the multiple causes (and treatment) of it.

Dear Dr. Hostetson: I've got this hangnail on my toe. Every time I get rid of it, it comes back. I would like to know how to get rid of it for good.—L. W.

Preventive pedicure. People don't care for their toenails, but they do their fingernails, but they might be happier if they did.

On fingers or toes, a hangnail usually develops because the cuticle, or skin, occasionally sticks to the nail. The skin is torn as the nail grows out. So—a hangnail.

In your case, when the skin is soft (as after a bath) take an orange wood stick and gently push the adhered cuticle off the nail.

Note to "Worried": Zinc sulphate has been used to facilitate wound healing (as after surgery). It has also been under consideration as a possible means of trying to treat hardening of the arteries. How effective it is has yet to be demonstrated. It is irritating to the stomach. Taken with a meal, it may help your case. Possibly a lower dosage would be tolerated better.

Opening lead—king of spades.

Let's say you're declarer with the south hand and West leads the king of spades. There seems to be very little to the play, so one thing you might do is win the spade with the ace, lead a club to the queen, discard two spades on the A-K of diamonds, then lead a heart and either finesse the queen or go up with the ace.

Whichever you do you are in trouble when West shows out. You would still be in good shape if you could return to dummy with a club in order to lead another trump through East, but when you try this, he ruffs and you later lose another trump trick to go down one.

True, you are unlucky to lose the hand if you played it this way, but even so you must assume a fair share of the blame for missing the contract. This was not the best way to play the hand.

It is obvious from the start that about the only distribution that could put the slam in jeopardy is a 4-0 trump division. If West has the four trumps the contract is hopeless, so you should assume that East has them.

The proper way of preparing for this contingency is to lead the ace of hearts at trick two. When West shows out, the rest of the play becomes relatively simple.

You cross to dummy with a club, cash the A-K of diamonds and discard two spades, then lead a trump from dummy. It does not matter whether East follows low or goes up with the king; in either event you lose only one trump trick.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Friday's planetary influences promise a lively and constructive day. Both business and domestic concerns are slated for gain, and most persons will prove highly congenial and cooperative. Do avoid extremes, however.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, while the forthcoming year may not be particularly stimulating where job, business and financial advancement are concerned, it would not be advisable to let down in your efforts since good influences off and on can help to offset intervening adverse aspects. For instance, you will have opportunity to make some gain along occupational and/or business lines between Oct. 10 and Jan. 15. Things will slow down then, but will pick up in spurts during late March and early May. With the first week of June, however, you will enter an excellent three-month cycle which will bring a real upturn in these affairs.

Best chances to up your monetary status are star-promised in November, January, early March and mid-July, but do be conservative in intervening periods. Most profitable periods for creative workers — and Virgo boasts many of you — will occur in November, January and June.

In personal matters, you should enjoy pleasant domestic situations for most of the year — with the possible exception of brief periods in February and July, when your tendencies toward criticism could irritate and alienate those in intimate circles. The next 12 months will be generally good for romance, with outstanding periods of happiness indicated in October, December, late March and August. Most propitious periods for travel: October, December, January, April and August.

A child born on this day will be endowed with great veracity and an outgoing and gregarious personality; will have great confidence in himself.

Heath Begins His Groundwork To Cure Economic Sluggishness

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Edward Heath has begun groundwork on a new economic strategy as Britain faces a major industrial crisis and new pressure on its currency.

The prime minister has scheduled meetings with labour union and industrial leaders next week to discuss rising unemployment, sluggish production, wage claims and a series of wildcat strikes.

The move comes as more than 25,000 workers in British car and truck factories are laid off because of strikes in component supply firms.

Union officials warned Tuesday that 40,000 workers will be come idle unless a peace formula is found to end the strikes over pay.

Also Tuesday a bout of selling sent sterling plunging to its lowest level against the U.S. dollar for nearly a year.

The strikes in the auto industry, Britain's biggest export earner, were undoubtedly worsening the pressure on the pound.

The government's plans for a new economic strategy came amid expressions of concern about the economy.

Work Lord Holding Up Inspections
Most campsites in the South Okanagan Health Unit were inspected during the third quarter of 1970, but with the volume of other demands for services, it was difficult to carry out a complete program.

This was reported in the medical director's report submitted Wednesday at the quarterly meeting in Oliver.

Problems of minimum areas for campsite units were encountered in two premises. However, until the regulations are changed to require a more definite provision for setting out road boundaries, unit areas, it will be impossible to achieve adequate control, it was reported.

Water supply problems were encountered in four establishments, but three have been corrected.

Garbage disposal problems in the Skaha Lake area were corrected by using the Summerland disposal area.

One establishment in the Skaha Lake area was put on notice to correct improperly installed sewage systems.

Dairyman From Silver Creek Wins NOCA Grassman Award

The 1970 Grassman of the Year Award was presented recently to a Silver Creek dairyman at the 17th annual NOCA Dairy green pasture tour and corn competition.

Judged the 1970 "Grassman of the Year" was Norman Anderson, Silver Creek. End results were announced at the 17th Annual Green Pasture Tour and Corn Competition.

Norman Anderson, a relatively new dairyman in the North Okanagan, was awarded the Grassman trophy, by H. Wiens, assistant general manager. Other awards included the De Laval Award, and the Royal Bank Rose Bowl for Mrs. Anderson, presented by Fred Wickett.

Runner up to the "Grassman" was Gordon Honeyman, Enderby, who received the Buckenfield's Trophy, presented by Richard Heape; and the Rainbird Sprinkler Award, presented by A. Lypchuk of NOCA Dairy.

Receiving the title of "Corn King" was John Kwantes, Lumby dairyman, who was judged as the winner of the best stand of field corn award. The Alcan Pipe, Ltd. Tray was presented to Mr. Kwantes by manager, B. Howe, and the Buckenfield's prize was presented by Mr. Heape.

Attendance was excellent and participation outstanding, stated Arnold Allan, District Agriculturalist and four organizer.

Mr. Allan also said dairy farmers this year were more interested in the competition than in previous years.

Competition Judge, Dr. H. M. Austenson, Professor of Agronomy at the University of Saskatchewan, remarked competition was close and he found difficulty selecting one man who was better than the others in each category. He chose winners on the basis of general overall forage - production program.
